‘Social service Web’

Introduction

Social service Web is an idea that I came up with while I visited and attend some of the social services events. As I interact with most of the people while attending social services, I came to know that many people want to be a helping hand in social work but they do not get most of the notices and events about upcoming social services. They want one place to receive notices and updates, when and where this service is happening and want to join and be a helping hand. My page will entirely focus on the providing latest news and updates and provide an area for the people that wants to be a helping hand, fund raising place to help those needed.

Social service Web will help youngster and elder people who likes to help people with what they have by joining altogether with all the people around the globe. With this webpage, people will receive events and notices about the social services happening near the area around them and takes part and be a helping hand.

Features

- Helping hand:
 - People who likes to help others will be able to join hands together and bring the changes around the society they lived in.
- Together we can:
 - All the organization and members of certain groups will be able to get notice through our website about the area that need social services and will provide the fund and necessary items with helping hand as fast as possible.
- Funds gathering faster:
 - As we will update the news day by day, we will be able to join up with more than 3 million peoples (estimated). With this much gathering, funds gathering for social services will be much faster as we expect.

Market Survey

Here is the list of websites that provides different news and updates, as well as provide social services and help social workers to be up-to-date with all the social events that is happening world-wide.

- Social Work Action Network
(<http://socialworkfuture.org/>)

- Social Work Helper
(<https://socialworkhelper.com/>)
- Social Justice Solution
(<http://www.socialjusticesolutions.org/>)
- Social Worker
(<https://www.socialworker.com/>)
- Children's Aid
(<https://www.childrensaidnyc.org/>)

Going through all the websites, what I found altogether is that all the websites have their own way to help social workers by providing knowledge, news, updates, events, etc. As you can visit all the above pages that I provided with link, you will find out that every page provides respective material and not all and users need to go through different websites to get what they need.

The main purpose of my website is to combine them all and give everything from one place. Another thing that I did not find on above pages is that you cannot get news and updates about the social events happening in own designated area/environment. My page will provide an option to fill up the form and provide the information according to that form which will be easier for the social worker. Yes, they can also view what is happening around the world through latest news panel.
